Mayor says 'frill' is gone

By Jamie Baker-Nantz
Editor

A new aquatic center in Williamstown and any major capitol improvements won't be happening in the next year.

According to Mayor Rick Skinner, the 2012-2013 budget is "just the bare necessities."

"It's a tight budget, with no frills," he said.

DID YOU KNOW:
An aquatic center, a joint venture between the Williamstown City Council and Williamstown Board of Education, is now on hold due to lack of funding.

The aquatic center, which was a partnership with the Williamstown School District, is being placed on hold since there were no funds to proceed with the project.

The school district and city council were working with an architect on a design for the project, which was dependent on financing.

Skinner said the school district didn't receive as much funding from the state as they anticipated, so the project would have to be shelved for now.

Meal prices increase

By Bryan Marshall
Staff Writer

Meal prices will be a little more expensive when students return to school after the summer.

Grant County Schools and Williamstown Independent both have increased the amount the cafeterias charge for lunches for the 2012-13 school year.

> "As much as you hate to see price increases, for what they're getting, you can't pack a lunch and get all that stuff for that price."
>
> - Margaret Prewitt
> Grant Co. Food Services Director

For Grant County, breakfast prices have jumped from $1 to $1.10.

Lunch prices have increased at all Grant County schools by 20 cents.

"We hadn't raised in four years," said Margaret Prewitt, Grant County Schools food service director. "So, I looked at it like it was a 5-cent increase every year."

Elementary school students will now pay $1.70, middle schoolers will pay $1.90 and high school students will be charged $2.20.

OFF TO THE RACES - NASCAR ROLLS INTO KY. SPEEDWAY

Traffic patterns, parking ready for race

By Kristin Sherrard
Landmark News Service

While last year's first NASCAR Sprint Cup Series Quaker State 400 at the Kentucky Speedway was largely a success, the traffic and lack of parking left a bad taste in the mouths of some race fans.

Because of this, Kentucky State Police have a new plan for dealing with traffic and parking for this weekend's NASCAR races.

Bruton Smith, owner of Kentucky Speedway, with the help of the state, made improvements to the Sparta track including widening the Interstate-71 southbound off-ramp, widening state Hwy. 35 to seven lanes and building a 170-foot-long, 42-foot-wide pedestrian tunnel.

RACE DAY TIPS:
- Parking lots open at 7 a.m.
- Fans can bring one 14-inch cooler and one carry-in item (backpack or purse).
- Kentucky ABC law prohibits alcohol to be carried through Kentucky Speedway gates.
- Arrive early; heaviest traffic is within four hours of the race.

Work on this year's traffic and parking plan began last August. After reviewing the action plans from last year's race and the traffic simulation model conducted by Stantec Consulting, troopers and personnel worked on a plan to improve the situation..

"First question that comes to mind in review of last year's plan was 'If you can get 100,000 people out of here in three-and-a-half hours, why can't you get them in in 13?'" Hayes said.

EKPC donates $5,000 to Red Cross

East Kentucky Power Cooperative opened their doors for Duke Energy which serves communities in the area, to use the Crittenden Service Center as a staging area for some of its crews when the March 3 tornadoes ripped through Grant County. Duke Energy raised $5,000 to give EKPC for the charity of thier choice and they chose the American Red Cross for thier efforts in helping the tornado victims. "We wanted to use the money to help the local community," said Chris Barnes, who supervises EKPC's Crittenden Service Center. "After the storm, the Red Cross did a great job helping people in the community who had lost everything. So it just made sense to support the Red Cross," Barnes said.

East Kentucky Power Cooperative is a not-for-profit, member-owned cooperative providing wholesale electricity to 16 owner-member distribution cooperatives that serve 520,000 Kentucky homes, farms, businesses and industries across 87 counties.

Mt. Carmel hosts night of hope with David Ring

Nationally known speaker David Ring will be speaking at 6:30 p.m. July 1 at Mt. Carmel Baptist Church in Williamstown. The service will focus on how to emerge victorious rather than victimized in the face of seemingly insurmountable odds.

Ring knows a thing or two about being victorious in the face of insurmountable odds. Born in 1953, he was deprived of oxygen for 18 minutes at birth leaving him with cerebral palsy. Orphaned at 14 after both parents died of cancer, he was cast from family to family with nowhere to call home. He endured constant physical pain, humiliating public ridicule and constant discouragement. Yet he chose to be victorious rather than be a victim.

After surrendering his heart and his life to Jesus Christ, he learned self-respect and acceptance of his physical challenges. To most, physical challenges of his magnitude would prove to be a tombstone. For Ring, this coming of age was and remains a milestone.

Although difficult at first to understand, Ring quickly captures his audiences with his quick wit and warm personality. He always focuses on an individual's need to conquer the personal challenges to everyone. "I have Cerebral Palsy...What's your problem?" asks Ring. Ring has authored one book and speaks to more than 100,000 people annually.

Entrance to the event is free. Arrive early as seats will fill up quickly. For more information, contact the church office at 859-824-0817.

OUR OPINION

Celebrate - just do it responsibly

What's the Fourth of July without a bang, boom and a whole lot of hoopla?

With consumer fireworks now legal in Kentucky, it is important that people use common sense when lighting up the night sky, especially since the area has had no rain in several weeks.

The Fourth of July is a time to celebrate our independence as a country, community and as individuals but following a few simple safety tips can mean that you enjoy it without a trip to the emergency room.

These tips, from the fireworks industry, are simple and straightforward.

1. Never allow children to handle fireworks. Only sober adults should handle and light fireworks.

2. Use fireworks in a clear, open space. Shoot them from a hard, flat surface. Keep your audience a safe distance from your launch site and fallout zones.

3. Have a water source close by. A connected hose is best, but a bucket of water or fire extinguisher will suffice.

4. Do NOT relight duds. Follow your local laws. Use a long neck butane lighter to light the fireworks.

5. Never, ever put any part of your body over a firework or in its travel path.

PERSONALLY SPEAKING

Touch my pocket, I get steamed

I'm more than a little steamed and it's not because of the hot weather we've had recently.

I'm hot under the collar because of situations and things I just can't fathom.

I can't imagine what $3 million dollars looks like, let alone feels like, but that's about the amount that the University of Kentucky's former president Charles T. Wethington Jr. (1989-2001) milked from the state's flagship institution over the last 11 years when he left the presidency and moved into being a fundraiser for UK and then as a professor for the Bluegrass Community Technical College.

Basically, when the university's board of trustees helped him step down, they were forced to make it worth his while to do so, but come on that's a lot of Benjamins.

No, I don't personally know Wethington. I don't even know anyone on UK's board, so why am I spouting off about it and what' my connection?

I'm a parent with a child who chose to attend UK, the only school she'd even visit, so that's why decisions and shenanigans like this that touch my pocket make me mad.

For the last two years, there have been tuition hikes at UK. Just recently, the university announced it would not be filling 160 vacant positions and it would laying off 140 employees or 1 percent of its work force.

I know times are tough.

We see and hear it every day in this community. There are small businesses who are making weekly payments on their advertising bill and not advertising as much because their business is down.

Look at the city of Williamstown's budget. They city took in less money in utilities last year than the year before. Why? As Mayor Rick Skinner put it, people are watching their bills closely and conserving electricity and water because they have to.

The Williamstown City Council and Williamstown Board of Education have been talking about an aquatic center for a couple of years, but because times are tough and the money isn't there, the project has been shelved.

The Williamstown City Council also addressed overtime concerns and changed their policies on overtime so that employees must work 40 hours without using vacation before they are eligible for overtime.

That's smart and fiscally responsible.

I'm sure the employees were sad, and even a little mad, to see this kind of change, but as a citizen I'm not. That's what we elect those boards, councils, courts and commissions for – to make sound financial decisions and be good stewards of the money they have.

Other departments and agencies are making tough calls these days about filling empty positions or buying and replacing equipment and vehicles. That's just a fact of the times.

It encourages me to see that our local governmental agencies, like the city councils, school boards, and government are taking a close look at their spending because the dollars they are spending belong to you and me, either in the form of taxes or usage fees.

That's what is so disheartening when I read stories like the one about Wethington or even in Frankfort and Washington about the waste of my hard-earned dollars.

My belief is that government, be it local, state, national or even educational should be about providing service and not about lining some guys Caymen Islands bank account.

That is just plain wrong.

A WORD FROM OUR READERS . . .

Sherman Church of Christ learns about enviroment

We, the Sherman Church of Christ Mission team, would like to thank the Grant County Solid Waste for the opportunity to be involved in the community by picking up trash. The funds raised are going to our mission trip to Alabama. This will help us meet our goals of fundraising. It also benefited us by having the opportunity to see how litter affects the environment. Thank You.

Trash is a reflection of our society

The youth group had trash pick-up on four of our county roads, Shady Lane, Mason Road, N. Fork Road and Peaceful Road. We would like to say thanks and great job to the people who live on these roads because there was only small amounts of trash to collect.

It is true that littering is bad and makes our county look dirty. However, the worst part of trash pick-up is that our leader had show us pictures of drug-related items that we should not pick up before we began because people are now throwing these things out on the side of the road causing a severe danger to everyone. To me this is a sad reflection of our society that drugs are even a part of trash pick-up.

We would also like to say thanks to the Grant County Solid Waste Board who give groups like ours the chance to raise money for our youth group projects. Please help keep our county roads safe and clean-don't litter.

Littering makes community ugly

I really enjoy cleaning up the roads. It makes me feel good to help my community. I do wish more people would get involved in keeping our roads clean. I think littering makes the community ugly and I wish people wouldn't litter.

DOWN AND DIRTY

Garlic harvest comes early, onions to follow

I read somewhere that summer solstice marks the point that it is safe to harvest your garlic. By June 20, the garlic has "cloved-up" in this part of the country but of course what happens prior to that date may give us a little wiggle room. This year I harvested on June 19th, the earliest in memory and the garlic looks good. My fall planted garlic is usually ready to harvest in August (once the tops begin to brown out); garlic is day-length sensitive thus the rule about cloves forming around summer solstice. If you harvest too early you will have just one bulb and if you harvest too late you may experience some rot or pest pressure. Bottom line, if your garlic tops have died out get ready to dig. I usually use a garden fork to loosen the soil and pull the bulb free grasping the stalk. I leave them fully intact and put them in the garage to let them air cure for about two weeks. Put them wherever you want but be sure it is a warm, dry and well-ventilated space. After your two-week mark you can trim, clean and sort your bulbs. Once the bulbs feel dry braid them all together (which I have never been able to figure out how to do) or cut the stems leaving a couple of inches above the bulb, the neck should feel tight and dry which will prevent decay. Rub off any remaining soil with your hands and inspect each bulb.

Signal when ready

Sort any damaged ones to use right away; sort the biggest and most beautiful for replanting in the fall (this is how you create super garlic that loves where you grow and live.) The average and pristine get cleaned up for storage and later culinary delight. For long term storage store pick somewhere cool and dark; I recycle little mesh bags and hang them from a nail in the pantry. Avoid storing garlic in the refrigerator because it can change the flavor (it is reasonable to experiment with various storage practices, too.) The signal that your onions are ready for harvest is when the tops of the plants flop over and die back. When about half of the tops have turned brown and flopped over the onions are at their peak for harvesting. Be sure not to harvest too early because the bulb size will be small, they will cure slowly and be more likely to decay before you use them. Putting off harvest too long also increases the chances of decay.

Jeneen
WICHE
Weekend Gardener

Once the tops have flopped, dig the onions. During the curing process, you want to cut the tops back to about two inches and lay them out on a screen in that same dry, well-ventilated, shaded place your garlic enjoyed for about two weeks. As they cure the necks shrink up and phenolic compounds accumulate there which helps to stop rot. Those onions with thicker necks have a harder time protecting themselves from rot so go ahead and sort those out and use them first.

'Super Star'

After the two week curing period trim the tops again leaving about an inch to protect the neck from bacteria and fungi. Onions are most successfully stored at 32 degrees with a low humidity level. Rot and sprouting during the bulb's dormant period are more prevalent when they are stored at temperatures above 40. Interestingly, too, the more pungent the onion the better it stores because of higher levels of the phenolic compound which helps to keep disease down in the bulb. Other ways to increase your onion harvest and successful storage is to start with the right variety at planting time. Look for intermediate-day length onions (these onions set bulbs when day-length averages 12-14 hours) that are considered good storage varieties, including 'Super Star', 'Candy', 'Ebenezer' and 'Storage King'.

ADAM H. EDELEN
AUDITOR OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS

The Honorable Darrell Link, Grant County Judge/Executive
The Honorable Chuck Dills, Grant County Sheriff
Members of the Grant County Fiscal Court

Independent Auditor's Report

We have audited the accompanying statement of revenues, expenditures, and excess fees - regulatory basis of the Sheriff of Grant County, Kentucky, for the year ended December 31, 2011. This financial statement is the responsibility of the Sheriff. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on this financial statement based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, and the Audit Guide for County Fee Officials issued by the Auditor of Public Accounts, Commonwealth of Kentucky. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statement is free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statement. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

As described in Note 1, the Sheriff's office prepares the financial statement on a regulatory basis of accounting that demonstrates compliance with the laws of Kentucky, which is a comprehensive basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

In our opinion, the financial statement referred to above presents fairly, in all material respects, the revenues, expenditures, and excess fees of the Sheriff for the year ended December 31, 2011, in conformity with the regulatory basis of accounting described in Note 1.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated May 25, 2012 on our consideration of the Grant County Sheriff's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts and grant agreements, and other matters. The purpose of that report is to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards and should be considered in assessing the results of our audit.

This report is intended solely for the information and use of the Sheriff and Fiscal Court of Grant County, Kentucky, and the Commonwealth of Kentucky and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these interested parties.

Respectfully submitted,

Adam H. Edelen

Faith & Values

VERSE OF THE WEEK:
Because of our Lord Jesus Christ, we live at peace with God. Christ has also introduced us to God's undeserved kindness on which we take our stand. So we are happy, as we look forward to sharing in the glory of God.
Hebrews 5: 1, 2 (CEV)

RELIGIOUS VIEWS

A little tree trimming

In my driveway, I was trying to get my three kids out of the van, when I found the van door wouldn't shut on one side. I kept pressing the automatic closer button and it wouldn't close. The question that came to mind was: "What did the kids do to the van?" I soon realized that the branches from a nearby tree were hanging so low that they were in the way of the door closing. I moved the tree limbs out of the way and the next day I inspected the tree. I came to the realization that over time, subtly and slowly the tree had become overgrown. It was so overgrown that my family and I were walking around the driveway to get into the garage. The tree was in the way and keeping us from using our driveway as it was designed to be used.

Our lives are the same way. Over time, slowly and subtly, things get into our lives that keep us from being who we are supposed to be. Many times we don't even recognize they are there and keeping us from being who we are supposed to be until "the door won't close." It is in that moment that we ask "why am I doing this"?

Pastor's Corner
Josh
LANDRUM

The Bible explains that every human being was and is created with a purpose, to glorify God. It says: "Do all to the glory of God" and "The Lord has made all things for His glory." However, despite those directives, we focus on our own happiness and pleasure while the Bible says we should be focusing upon giving God glory.

What is it in your life that is a tree branch blocking your view and keeping you from glorifying God? It all starts in a relationship with Jesus Christ.

• A parable is said to be known as an earthly story with a heavenly meaning. The gospel according to Luke, gives three examples of parables. These include the story of the lost sheep, the story of the lost coin and the story of the prodigal son. In each of these parables Jesus teaches that sometimes mankind gets lost. They stop coming to services quit reading their bibles or gradually drift away from God. The story of the prodigal son has a happy ending, the one who is lost is now found. If you have drifted away from God, do all you can to come back to Him.

We ended the Sunday evening by having a great time at the church property with food, music, volleyball and a slip and slide for the kids.

We have designated Wednesday nights for those who are interested for coming together in agreement so we may go out in authority. We are using Psalm 78:41 as our foundation, that we will no longer put limits on God and believe as we pray that our walk, witness, worship and world will be changed.

Harvest Apostolic

Pastor Pullens preached "Road Signs on the way to Hell" (Matthew 7:13-14, Isaiah 35:8)

You have only got one chance to make it out of here and if you're not on the highway of holiness you are traveling the pathway that leads to a pit in the road, which will be eternity. There will be signs on the way giving you a choice to make the right choices. They might say:

• Beware of the hole in the road called eternity.

• Caution, don't over ride the word of God

• Ignoring convictions will cost you.

• Repent before its too late.

•Time is running out!

• Sin is a cancer, eats into your soul to where only God can remove it.

• U-turn, go back to highway of holiness.

• Don't rebel against the warnings.

• Eternity is forever.

• Caution, hell is hot and there is no turning around.

• Last chance to turn around.

• Satan is waiting for you.

• Mercy can't go any further.

• You can close your eyes now, satan will drive you the rest of the way.

And the last sign you will see when its too late to make the right choice will be, Welcome to hell.

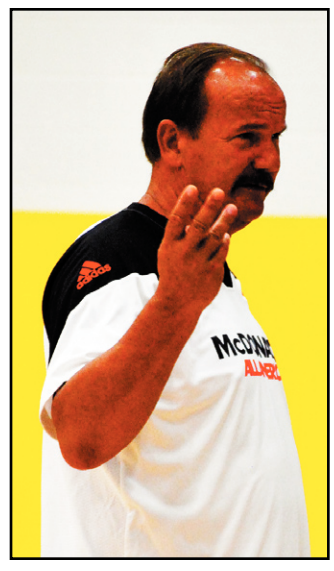
Winning coach shares 'secret' to success

Story/photos by Camille McClanahan



Like most Eastern Kentuckians, Billy Hicks was destined to be a coal miner, but Hicks had something different in mind.

"I wasn't a very good coal miner because I was too lazy. So, I figured I had better make a good basketball coach," Hicks said.

He got the chance to prove himself when the superintendent of the Harlan County School District, gave him a chance.

"She said, 'I see it in your eyes. You're different.'" Hicks said. "It was like wow, somebody believed in me."

That was a defining moment for the young basketball coach, who would go on to lead teams to state titles.

In 30 years, he has been the head coach at high schools such as Corbin and Scott County where he has racked up 800 wins, two state championship titles, 23 state tournament wins, 11 regional championships and 21 district championships.

He's coached three Mr. Basketball players, as well as three runner-up Mr. Basketball candidates, along with many all-state and college scholarship recipients.

Hicks has also been the head coach of a McDonald's All-America game.

He has been coaching basketball camps, beginning with the Future Stars in 1995.

Last week, he spent a hot, summer day working with male and female basketball players in Grant County at the Billy Hicks Elite Basketball Camp.

The camp stresses the fundamentals of the game, but it's dribbling that Hicks considers a player's most important skill.

"Dribbling is the same for a 2-year-old or a 50-year-old," Hicks said. "Dribbling and basic shooting never change."

He designs the workouts for the camp based on his lifetime study of basketball.

"This camp is different because it works on the individual skills of the players," he said. "We never say the 'D' word. We never say defense."

Hicks said it's all about teaching defense.

"In a week's time, I expect them to get better because of two simple things – simplicity and repetition," he said.

He was quick to give credit to the basketball players who attended the camp.

"I've been impressed this week with how hard these kids have worked," he said. "They've worked harder than any of the kids I've ever had at camp."

For the athletes, the week was great.

"I've been to other camps but this one really focuses on individual skills. It will help me with the season next year. He's taught us things that we can work on at home." said Tyler Carr.

"This camp helped me work on my individual skills, like ball handling. I've learned things at this camp that I didn't learn at other basketball camps." said Billie Hearn, a player at the camp.

Hicks said he enjoys working with male and female players.

"Basketball fundamentals are the same for girls or boys. It's about a player working hard," he said. "When you put a basketball in a player's hand, they are bound to get better."

His goal is for the players to develop muscle memory and muscle training during the camp.

Coming to Grant County as a coach for the camp, he said, was a treat as opposed to being the coach who faced them during a game. Holding the camp was also a way for him to spend time with his nephew, Jim Hicks, head coach of the Braves.

He attributes any success he's had as a coach to hard work and the fear of failure.

"Basketball is something I dearly love," he said. "I have been blessed."

Austin Jones, left, attempts to shoot for the basket as Darius Meiman tries to block.

116 is a new contemporary service at
Dry Ridge Christian Church every Sunday Night at 6:30 p.m.
116 is based on the verse Romans 1:16 which states "For I am not ashamed of the gospel, for it is the power of God for salvation to everyone who believes, to the Jew first and also to the Greek."
116 is unlike any other service available in Grant County! We believe that this service is one for this generation; we believe that this service will allow all people to hear and get excited about the Gospel of Jesus Christ!
The band for 116 includes CJ Walters, Dustin Plunkett, DJ Hoffman, Caleb Walters and Felicity Spicer. The Youth Pastor at Dry Ridge Christian Church, Josh Cummins, leads the service. He and the band would like to invite everyone out to 116 on Sunday nights at 6:30 p.m. at Dry Ridge Christian Church!

Body Works to relocate to larger facility

By Bryan Marshall
Staff Writer

A banner hangs outside the building a larger Body Works Gym will move into with expanded services, including a smoothie bar and locker rooms.

Changing lives.

That's the number one goal for Justin Baker at Body Works Gym in Dry Ridge.

"We know since day one God has been at work with this," Baker said. "We have changed so many lives. The thing that we do that is different than any gym anywhere is we will bring a person in and we'll train them for free. You come in the door and join this facility, we will give you the attention you need to be able to train and understand what you're doing and change your life."

With already 1,100 members, Body Works Gym will have the space to help even more Grant County residents as it relocates soon to a location more than twice the size with expanded services and features.

The current 5,000 square-foot facility on South Main Street in Dry Ridge opened in Jan. 2006.

After seeing membership increase, Baker has decided to move Body Works Gym to the old Liz Claiborne building (1130 Fashion Ridge Rd.) next to Crack Barrel in the Dry Ridge Outlet Mall.

Construction of the 12,000-square-foot gym is well underway and Baker said he expects to open sometime between July 30 and Aug. 15.

There will eventually be a grand opening event with a DJ and other activities to celebrate the opening.

"During our peak months, we couldn't really hold the amount of traffic that was in our facility," Baker said about the motivation behind the move. "We wanted to be able to provide the county with an area where we could continue to touch people. We have done some things here that we never dreamed we would do. So, we didn't want it to be limited in our capabilities of what we could do by the size of our building. We ran into an opportunity to purchase this building. God was there all along working for us."

Along with more space, the new location allows the gym to have more exposure right off of Interstate 75, said Baker.

While the variety of equipment and classes Body Works Gym offers will remain, there also will be several additions.

The new facility will have full locker rooms where members can change and take a shower whereas the current location has a restroom and one small room for a shower separate from the restroom.

More space also allows Baker to have more equipment as well, along with a larger version of the gym's cardio theater.

"The biggest feature we're pumped about is that we're going to have a smoothie bar," Baker said. "It will provide us an opportunity to actually individualize a person's drink or shake in a healthy manner and give them that nutritional value that they need. That's a big deal for us."

Baker said he would like to have churches and other groups book sleepovers at the facility, along with birthday parties and after-school programs.

Long-term, the goal is to have saunas and a rock climbing wall.

Baker also is looking at offering physical therapy and basketball courts further down the road.

Another new feature will be the addition of Shelley's Gymnastics located inside the facility.

"What's cool about that is that Shelley has a lot of kids whose parents are members," Baker said. "That allows the parents to work out while Shelley is teaching."

There will be cameras in the gymnastics room that can be monitored by parents outside of the room while they exercise. The camera system also can be utilized if members use the child care room the gym will have during set hours.

Baker also will be expanding his 15-person staff by hiring eight to 10 employees to help with the added space and features.

Born and raised in Lexington, Baker has lived in Grant County for about 11 years.

He got introduced to weightlifting and training while playing sports growing up.

His interest grew as a student at the University of Kentucky where he met a friend who was into personal training.

"It kind of made sense because it was something I understood," Baker said. "It was neat and allowed me to make extra money while I was going through college. That's how it all started.."

Baker trained with the UK staff while attending college and also worked at Urban Active Fitness Center in Lexington and smaller gyms.

He is a certified personal trainer and has a degree in nutrition from UK. Baker's wife, Amanda, also is a certified trainer.

Eventually, Baker decided to open his own gym in Dry Ridge.

"It was one of those things where my whole life I had been a personal trainer and I have a degree in nutrition and I aspired to do something like that," he said. "When I got here (in Grant County) there was nothing here to what I was looking for from the standpoint of a fitness center. So, it was like, we'll try this and go from there."

Since opening, Body Works has collaborated in many community activities, including being a partner in the Biggest Winner Challenge by offering free memberships, classes and a personal trainer for participants during the program.

In a time where a slow economy has forced local businesses to struggle or close altogether, Body Works is bucking the trend by expanding, a fact not lost on Baker.

"I literally have people who have been with us for the six years we've been open," he said. "We've taken hundred of pounds off of several members of ours and kept it off. The idea behind our business being successful while others are struggling is because our hearts and souls are in everything we do and we believe in changing lives. We're not here to sell something and walk away. We're here to support that person and be by their side."

This report is designed to inform the public about the quality of water and services provided on a daily basis. Our commitment is to provide our customers with a safe, clean, and reliable supply of drinking water. We want to assure that we will continue to monitor, improve, and protect the water system and deliver a high quality product. Water is the most indispensable product in every home and we ask everyone to be conservative and help us in our efforts to protect the water source and the water system.

The source of your drinking water is surface water from Williamstown Lake. We buy our water wholesale from the City of Williamstown. The area around the lake is mostly residential but also contains some agricultural, recreational, and light industry activities. The final source water assessment for our system has been completed and is contained in the Grant County Water Supply Plan. Copies of the plan are available from our office. The plan indicates that the source water is susceptible to some contaminants caused by agricultural activities in the area. An analysis of the susceptibility of the Williamstown Municipal Water Department public water supply at Lake Williamstown to contamination indicates that this susceptibility is generally moderate.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects may be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and may pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity. Contaminants that may be present in source water include: Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, (sewage plants, septic systems, livestock operations, or wildlife). Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, (naturally occurring or from stormwater runoff, wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming). Pesticides and herbicides, (stormwater runoff, agriculture or residential uses). Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, (by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, or from gas stations, stormwater runoff, or septic systems). Radioactive contaminants, (naturally occurring or from oil and gas production or mining activities).
In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations that limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water to provide the same protection for public health.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Some or all of these definitions may be found in this report:

Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL) - the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.
Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG) - the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.
Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level (MRDL) - the highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.
Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal (MRDLG) - the level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.
Below Detection Levels (BDL) - laboratory analysis indicates that the contaminant is not present.
Not Applicable (N/A) - does not apply.
Parts per million (ppm) - or milligrams per liter, (mg/l). One part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.
Parts per billion (ppb) - or micrograms per liter, (µg/L). One part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.
Parts per trillion (ppt) - one part per trillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000,000.
Parts per quadrillion (ppq) - one part per quadrillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000,000 years or one penny in $10,000,000,000,000.
Picocuries per liter (pCi/L) - a measure of the radioactivity in water.
Millirems per year (mrem/yr) - measure of radiation absorbed by the body.
Million Fibers per Liter (MFL) - a measure of the presence of asbestos fibers that are longer than 10 micrometers.
Nephelometric Turbidity Unit (NTU) - a measure of the clarity of water. Turbidity has no health effects. However, turbidity can provide a medium for microbial growth. Turbidity is monitored because it is a good indicator of the effectiveness of the filtration system.
Variances & Exemptions (V&E) - State or EPA permission not to meet an MCL or a treatment technique under certain conditions.
Action Level (AL) - the concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements that a water system shall follow.
Treatment Technique (TT) - a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Information About Lead:

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. Your local public water system is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead.

Spanish (Español) Este informe contiene información muy importante sobre la calidad de su agua beber. Tradúzcalo o hable con alguien que lo entienda bien.

The data presented in this report are from the most recent testing done in accordance with administrative regulations in 401 KAR Chapter 8. As authorized and approved by EPA, the State has reduced monitoring requirements for certain contaminants to less often than once per year because the concentrations of these contaminants are not expected to vary significantly from year to year. Some of the data in this table, though representative, may be more than one year old. Unless otherwise noted, the report level is the highest level detected.

Bullock Pen Drinking Water Information

BULLOCK PEN WATER DISTRICT

1 FARRELL DRIVE • P.O. BOX 188 • CRITTENDEN, KY 41030 • (859) 428-2112

IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT YOUR DRINKING WATER
Water Purchased from the City of Williamstown has Levels of Total Organic Carbon Above Drinking Water Standards

Bullock Pen Water District purchases water from the City of Williamstown to serve our customers in southern Grant County. The City of Williamstown recently violated a drinking water standard. Although this is not an emergency, as our customers, you have a right to know what happened, what you should do, and what we are doing to correct this situation.

Testing results we recently received from the City of Williamstown show that their system did not meet the treatment technique requirement for Total Organic Carbon (TOC). Each month the percent of TOC removed is compared to the percent of TOC required to be removed and a ration is determined. These monthly ratios are used to calculate an annual average.

The annual average of monthly removal ratios of Total Organic Carbon (TOC) is required to be 1.00 or greater. The TOC removal ration for our water system was calculated to be: .91-.94.

What should I do?
You do not need to use an alternative (e.g., bottled) water supply. However, if you have specific health concerns, consult your doctor.

What does this mean?
This is not an immediate risk. If it had been, you would have been notified immediately. However, you need to be aware of the possible health effects.

Total Organic Carbon (TOC) has no health effects. However, Total Organic Carbon, provides a medium for the formation of disinfection byproducts. These byproducts include trihalomethanes, or THMs, and haloacetic acids, or HAA's. Drinking water containing these byproducts in excess of the MCL may lead to adverse health effects, liver or kidney problems, or nervous system effects, and may lead to an increased risk of getting cancer.

What happened? When did it happen? What is being done?
The City of Williamstown has optimized its Chemical Dosages to obtain compliance with the TOC removal rule. The City of Williamstown is also looking to upgrade the old or build a new plant in the near future. This step will insure the best possible drinking water quality for all its customers.

When will this be resolved?
We anticipate that this problem will be resolved within the First Quarter of 2012.

Bullock Pen Water District Water Quality Report

Bullock Pen Water District KY0410047
Water Quality Report for year 2011

Water - Essential for Life

P.O. Box 188
Crittenden, KY 41030-0188
Meetings: Bullock Pen Water District Office
Meeting Dates and Time: 3rd Thursday of each month 1:00 PM

Manager: William L. Catlett
Phone: 859-428-2112
CCR Contact: William L. Catlett
Phone: 859-428-2112

This report is designed to inform the public about the quality of water and services provided on a daily basis. Our commitment is to provide our customers with a safe, clean, and reliable supply of drinking water. We want to assure that we will continue to monitor, improve, and protect the water system and deliver a high quality product. Water is the most indispensable product in every home and we ask everyone to be conservative and help us in our efforts to protect the water source and the water system.

Our water source is surface water drawn from the Bullock Pen Lake. We also purchase water from the City of Williamstown, whose water source is surface water from Lake Williamstown. Customers in Boone County are served by water purchased from the Boone County Water District. Boone County Water District purchases water from the Greater Cincinnati Water Works whose source is the Ohio River. We also purchase from the Northern Kentucky Water District, whose water sources are the Ohio and Licking Rivers. The final source water assessment with a summary of the system's susceptibility to potential sources of contamination has been completed. The completed report is available for inspection at the Northern Kentucky Area Development District. The analysis of the susceptibility of the Bullock Pen Water District public water supply at Bullock Pen Lake to contamination indicates that this susceptibility is moderate. Agricultural areas located in the watershed for Bullock Pen's intake introduce the potential of agricultural chemicals and runoff, activities that contribute to non-point source pollution.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects may be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and may pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity. Contaminants that may be present in source water include: Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, (sewage plants, septic systems, livestock operations, or wildlife). Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, (naturally occurring or from stormwater runoff, wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming). Pesticides and herbicides, (stormwater runoff, agriculture or residential uses). Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, (by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, or from gas stations, stormwater runoff, or septic systems). Radioactive contaminants, (naturally occurring or from oil and gas production or mining activities).

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations that limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water to provide the same protection for public health.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Some or all of these definitions may be found in this report:

Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL) - the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG) - the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level (MRDL) - the highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.

Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal (MRDLG) - the level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.

Below Detection Levels (BDL) - laboratory analysis indicates that the contaminant is not present.

Not Applicable (N/A) - does not apply.

Parts per million (ppm) - or milligrams per liter, (mg/l). One part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.

Parts per billion (ppb) - or micrograms per liter, (µg/L). One part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.

Parts per trillion (ppt) - one part per trillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000,000.

Parts per quadrillion (ppq) - one part per quadrillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000,000 years or one penny in $10,000,000,000,000.

Picocuries per liter (pCi/L) - a measure of the radioactivity in water.

Millirems per year (mrem/yr) - measure of radiation absorbed by the body.

Million Fibers per Liter (MFL) - a measure of the presence of asbestos fibers that are longer than 10 micrometers.

Nephelometric Turbidity Unit (NTU) - a measure of the clarity of water. Turbidity has no health effects. However, turbidity can provide a medium for microbial growth. Turbidity is monitored because it is a good indicator of the effectiveness of the filtration system.

Variances & Exemptions (V&E) - State or EPA permission not to meet an MCL or a treatment technique under certain conditions.

Action Level (AL) - the concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements that a water system shall follow.

Treatment Technique (TT) - a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Information About Lead:

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. Your local public water system is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead.

Spanish (Español) Este informe contiene información muy importante sobre la calidad de su agua beber. Tradúzcalo o hable con alguien que lo entienda bien.

The data presented in this report are from the most recent testing done in accordance with administrative regulations in 401 KAR Chapter 8. As authorized and approved by EPA, the State has reduced monitoring requirements for certain contaminants to less often than once per year because the concentrations of these contaminants are not expected to vary significantly from year to year. Some of the data in this table, though representative, may be more than one year old. Unless otherwise noted, the report level is the highest level detected.

The City of Williamstown received a notice of violation for exceeding the MCL in reference to the Haloacetic Acids parameter of 2nd Quarter of 2011.The value reported was 63 ppb which exceeds the maximum contaminant limitation set by the federal EPA standard of 60 ppb. In an effort to resolve this issue numerous operational procedures are being attempted including, but not limited to, reducing disinfection to the lowest level possible without compromising heath and safety, increasing the addition of activated carbon,adjust the tank levels, more frequent flushing to solve the problem. Haloacetic Acids-Some people who drink water containing haloacetic acids in excess of the MCL over many years may have an increased risk of getting cancer.

SPEEDWAY

"Well, it's pretty simple. First of all, you have to have somewhere for them to go and second of all, you have to keep them moving."

Hayes noted the speedway created an additional 20,000 parking spaces by purchasing new land as well as rehabilitating land that was not suitable for parking last year.

"What worked last year? I know it's hard to believe anything worked, but actually our outbound plan worked really well," Hayes said. "We were able to get 100-plus-thousand people out of here in three and a half hours. If you had asked me that at 9 o'clock on race day, I'd have said 'no way.'"

State police will use the coning process as opposed to troopers because it is more efficient and avoids delays related to drivers stopping to ask questions, said Trooper Michael Webb, KSP headquarters public affairs.

Traffic patterns for the race will be:

• Southbound from the northern Kentucky/ Cincinnati - use I-71 Exit 57. Lanes will be coned off, and traffic will be directed up state Hwy. 35. There, all lanes will be directed inbound to maximize traffic flow. Once drivers reach Gate 3, they must decide to enter either the Ford parking lot or lots G, H, I and J, Webb said.

• Northbound from the Louisville - take I-71 Exit 55 and go through the same coning process on state Hwy. 1039. They will access the track through Speedway Boulevard and park in lots A, B, C and D.

"These traffic plans are designed to move large amounts of traffic in one designated direction, so if a person should decide or want to go an opposite direction during that time period, they're going to have a problem," Hayes said. "Again, this whole plan is designed for people coming to the race and people to leave the race. So if there are local people involved and trying to get from point A to point B, I would advise avoiding the race track area on that day."

The traffic contingency plan includes pre-plan detours, and wreckers will be pre-positioned to deal with any issues on the interstate or on roads nearby the track, such as accidents or stalled vehicles. There also will be six Kentucky Department of Transportation safety patrol vehicles to assist.

At the end of the race, parking lot traffic will be held until 30 minutes after the race to allow pedestrian traffic to disperse.

"Folks that are on the infield will be held for 90 minutes, and that again is to help us with the congestion, to reduce that. Really, the only way to leave the speedway early is if you're going to be able to leave before the actual conclusion of the race," Webb said.

Parking, last year, caused many headaches for police, race fans and the track. As a result, the speedway hired Veterans Security and Parking, and will have close to 300 parking attendants on site, twice as many as last year.

The KSP will have a trooper in every parking lot to ensure the cars are being parked according to KSP's parking plan. This includes parking multiple lots simultaneously, parking multiple rows simultaneously. Each car will be directed to a specific location in each individual lot.

The Kentucky Speedway will provide trams and shuttles from the distant parking areas to the track.

Another deficiency from last year's race was the lack of communication to the public about the Sprint Cup race traffic, said Trooper Brad Arterburn, public affairs officer for KSP Post 5. This year traffic updates will be released every 30 minutes or sooner depending on the situation.

Arterburn will e-mail updates to media contacts, and the AM 1620 radio station set up within a 5-mile radius around the track also will have updates. In addition, the KSP and Kentucky Speedway Facebook and Twitter (@kystatepolice and @KySpeedway) pages will each have the traffic updates.

Commercial and motor vehicle traffic will also be diverted to I-64 or I-75, Arterburn said.

"Commercial vehicles are just bigger. When they get in with race traffic it's hard to merge, it's hard to see, so if we can eliminate having those in there, we think that will help a lot," he said.

Even with all of the construction improvements and changes to the traffic and parking plan, delays will not be completely eliminated, as with any large event.

MEAL

"As much as you hate to see price increases, for what they're getting, you can't pack a lunch and get all that stuff for that price," Prewitt said.

Breakfast prices will remain at $1.25 for all students at Williamstown, however, lunch prices have jumped by 10 cents.

Students from Headstart to fifth grade will have to pay $1.95 while sixth through 12th graders will be charged $2.20 for lunch.

The price increases at both districts stem from a rule in the Healthy, Hunger-Free Kids Act of 2010 that mandates that participants in the National School Lunch Program raise their prices if their district charges less than $2.51 for paid lunches.

Stephanie Caldwell, Williamstown Independent Schools food service director, said if the policy would not have been followed, the school board would have dipped into its money to help offset increasing costs of the self-sufficient program.

"We don't want to take away from classroom education to pay for the lunch room," she said.

For families who meet eligibility requirements, both district will make available beginning July 1 forms to sign students up for free or reduced school meals.

For the 2011-12 school year, there were 2,111 students signed up for free lunches and 300 registered for reduced price meals at Grant County Schools.

Williamstown Independent had 463 free and reduced students.

Free and reduced meal forms can be found online at www.grant.kyschools.us/AdmSchoolNutrition.aspx or under Food Service at www.wtown.k12.ky.us.

They also can be picked up at any school or the Grant County Board of Education office.

FRILL

"I'm very disappointed but I understand why," said Bob Perry, a council member. "I hope in the next couple of years things will get better and we can bring it off the table because I want to see the city do the project."

Williamstown's budget is tight because the city must make two payments of $435,000 in December 2012 and June 2013 on the new waste water treatment plant.

"We've been anticipating this and putting money back each month to meet that debt," Skinner said.

The city council began working on the budget a couple of months ago.

For the first time in several years, Skinner said city employees did not receive a 1.5 a cost of living increase.

Williamstown's budget differs from other cities in the county because Williamstown owns and operates its own utilities including cable TV, electric, water and sewer.

In the 2012-13 budget, revenues are as follows:

- Cable TV - $1,302,200
- Electric - $5,228,300
- Water - $1,732,000
- Sewer - $2,118,900
- General fund (property, vehicle taxes, licenses, permits, etc.) - $1,496,200

The city receives revenue from several sources including its utilities and property/vehicle taxes and an insurance premium tax.

However, revenues in the water and sewer departments were down slightly.

"In this economy, people are being more conservative with their water and electric use," Skinner said.

In the city's next year's budget, which begins on July 1, the expenditures are predicted to be:

- Cable TV - $1,295,900
- Electric - $3,974,700
- Water - $1,143,200
- Sewer - $980,500

The general fund includes services such as police, fire, streets, parks and recreation.

The police department, general government and streets make up the largest allocations of the general fund.

In next year's budget, $789,400 was allocated for police and $546,500 was allocated for streets and the Williamstown Cemetery and $419,300 was set aside for general government.

The fire department received $185,600 and parks and recreation was allocated $13,250.

Skinner said the city's utilities are continuing to subsidize the general fund, but this year's amount is less than last year.

One area that a committee composed of Councilmen Eddie Gabbert, Police Chief Al Rich, Assistant City Clerk Crystal Fryman and Skinner addressed was overtime for city employees.

Skinner said they looked at overtime costs to the city for the last five years and made some changes in the city's personnel manual.

Following city council's approval, employees must now work an actual 40 hours, without using any vacation to get to 40 hours, before they are eligible for overtime pay.

Skinner said it's tough to predict when there will be overtime, especially for the utility departments in the event of bad weather.

"We've built some overtime in the budget and we'll think we're handling it closely and then something will happen and your overtime hours are up," he said.

Two weeks ago, employees in the electric department spent as much as four hours working to restore electricity when a snake slithered across lines at the substation on Barnes Road, sending current back into the substation and catching it on fire.

"That you'll never be able to predict," said Skinner.

The city did recently purchase the former Cincinnati Bell building in the center of town for $145,000. The electric and cable departments will eventually move to that location.

This purchase included a 225-foot tower, which will be used for the city's Internet and Cable equipment, as opposed to those being located on a water tower.

"This will actually make money for us," Skinner said.

Williamstown violates water standard due to computer error

By Jamie Baker-Nantz
Editor

The City of Williamstown violated a drinking water standard that impacted about 8,000 customers, but the problem occurred at the end of 2011, but it was not a health hazard.

According to Brian Gatewood, Williamstown's water superintendent, the city did violate the state's water quality standard in the third and fourth quarter of last year due to a faulty spread sheet.

"The city was out of compliance, but we were operating under the assumption we were in compliance," Gatewood said. "Had we known we were out of compliance we would have addressed it right away."

Gatewood said the error wasn't found until the city's reports were sent to Frankfort for the annual Consumer Confidence Report.

> "This is six months after the fact and is not an issue now. The public needs to understand that TOC is not a health risk."
>
> - Brian Gatewood
> Williamstown water superintendent

By the time the spread sheet was corrected and the city notified of the violation, it was nearly six months later.

"If they had discovered it after the second month, there could have been additional testing and the state could have given the city a variance for the limit," Gatewood said.

"I can't place blame on anyone and there's no way to go back," he said.

The testing shows the city did not meet the treatment technique for Total Organic Carbon (TOC). Each month the percent of TOC removed is compared to the percent of TOC required to be removed, which determines a ratio of how much should be removed. The monthly ratios are used to calculate an annual average. The annual average of monthly removal ratios of TOC is required to be 1.00 or greater. The TOC removal ratio for the city was calculated to be .91 to .94.

"This is six months after the fact and is not an issue now," Gatewood said. "The public needs to understand that TOC is not a health risk."

Williamstown is exploring funding options to build a new water treatment plant or else they will be forced to make costly upgrades to their present plant or face fines if they are not in compliance with new state and federal laws.

CONSUMERS WARNED ABOUT FAKE GED TESTS

Kentucky Adult Education, a unit of the Council on Postsecondary Education, issued a consumer alert regarding fraudulent websites claiming to offer high school and GED diplomas for a fee through the Internet. .Only a state may issue the GED test credential. The GED tests are not available online as claimed on these websites. The exam, which takes more than seven hours to complete, is administered only at Official GED Testing Centers.

Many of the same misleading websites also offer GED instruction for a fee. Kentucky Adult Education offers free instruction online through local adult education centers and offers classes in every Kentucky county. For a limited time, Kentuckians can also take advantage of free GED testing.

The GED test consists of a series of five tests that measure achievement in subject areas associated with a high school program of study. The GED Testing Service, the provider of these tests, has strict policies regarding test administration.
